MESSAGES FROM THE AMBASSADOR OF ITALY TO
AUSTRALIA AND THE ITALIAN
TRADE COMMISSIONER

Embassy of Italy
Canberra

The Italian participation in INDO PACIFIC, the international maritime exposition, confirms the significant interest of Italian enterprises, along with our competent national authorities and associations (i.e., Ministry of Defence and Italian Industries Federation for Aerospace, Defence and Security), in the dynamic Australian market. It is a unique opportunity, especially for those specialising in the maritime domain, to showcase their products, know-how and experience, meet with Australian stakeholders, both institutional and private, and explore new business opportunities.

Thanks to full-hearted institutional support, the Italian industry in the defence sector enjoys a global outreach, and it is well known for the use of the most advanced technologies in research, design and production. The presence of Italian companies here in Sydney is also very significant as it demonstrates their interest in developing more partnerships in the wider Indo-Pacific region.

I seize this opportunity to thank Simona Bernardini, Director of ITA Sydney, and her team for the brilliant preparatory work conducted to support the event and the participation of Italian companies.

H.E. Paolo Crudele
Ambassador of Italy to Australia

ITALIAN TRADE AGENCY

The Amerigo Vespucci, the historic and iconic Training Ship of the Navy, left Genoa on 1 July 2023 for a world tour that will last for 20 months, heralding the values of national history and culture as well as Italian manufacturing excellence.

The Italian naval-mechanical and defence industry shows growing competitiveness worldwide due to the increase in international cooperation and technological progress.

Italy is intensifying its presence in both the economic-commercial and security fields, in the Indo-Pacific area. This region in the last decade has proven to be an important centre of global dynamics.

As we wait for the Vespucci, this incredible ambassador of Made in Italy, to arrive in Australia next year, the Italian Trade Agency is thrilled to be exhibiting – together with key Italian manufacturing companies active in the maritime and defence sectors – at the INDO PACIFIC 2023 edition.
